INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 23.—A committee from Nashville, Tenn., waited upon Mr. Greeley at the Galt House, Louisville, Ky., at 7 o'clock this morning, and urged his acceptance of an invitation to proceed to their city during the coming week and address them on the political issues of the hour. Mr. Greeley declined the invitation on account of previous engagements, but observed that if he could possibly arrange it he would visit them before the October election. The refusal was received with some disappointment, but the invitation was pressed with more earnestness on the ground of political necessity. Ex-Gov. Henry S. Foote, on the part of the Committee, distinctly informed Mr. Greeley that in the interest of the coalition it was his duty, as it was an absolute necessity to visit Tennessee and Alabama. He considered Alabama as one of the doubtful States. The colored element there be represented as very strongly in favor of Grant, and no assurance were those who expressed dissatisfaction with Mr. Greeley's candidature that many on whom they counted to oppose the Administration were more determined to support it. The invitation has not been positively accepted, but it is not by any means likely that the modest "Sage" will forego any opportunity of receiving the adulation of the Southern Copperheads.

He left the Galt House for Jeffersonville, Indiana, in an open carriage. There were hardly twenty persons present when he departed, and no attempt was made to raise a cheer. He reached Jeffersonville at 9½ o'clock, where he was received by about 500 persons and escorted to the Burnet House. He held a formal reception, and graciously permitted a few of the young ladies present to give him a chaste kiss. Shortly afterward he appeared in the balcony of the hotel and spoke as follows:

MR. MAYOR AND CITIZENS OF JEFFERSONVILLE: I should be very inconsistent and unpracteral if my life had not been devoted, according to my best understanding, to the interests and welfare of the great laboring class out of which I have sprung, and to which I have always been committed. Beginning life as a laborer, I learned my trade by working at it, then becoming a master, taking them into a mechanic's shop and learning my trade as a printer. I have devoted the rest of my subsequent life, first, to my own employment as printer and editor, and afterward to some extent as an humble, sedentary farmer, as well. I feel that any sympathies I should not have been otherwise than with the immense majority of mankind, who in all ages are required to subsist by their own manual industry. I have meant to be in my politics as in my business—the friend of labor. I may have made mistakes—who has not?—in the politics which I advocated; but whatever opposition I may have made, was directly opposed to the formation of the working men. I may just as well have been mistaken as equally honest, equally earnest men who have advocated a different policy; but I know what my purpose was. I was, in the days of slavery, an enemy of slavery because I thought slavery inconsistently with the rights of the laborer, the dignity, the manhood and freedom of free labor. That might have been a mistake, but it was at any rate an earnest conviction. So when our great trouble came upon us, I was opposed to all the leaders of the Rebellion, because I should be very sorry to see free men, I was unwilling that our country's enemy might be peacefully and without bloodshed, if that were possible, by means of bloodshed, if that dire alternative should be forced upon us. My counsels and sentiments, as well as always, and necessarily, in a time of awful peculiarity, those of the honest, law-abiding men most fearful to make that sacrifice as short as possible, as brief as possible, to have the least amount of bloodshed possible, so that as soon as peace can be restored to the country as immediately as it can be, every trace, not merely of blood on the hands, but of vengeful feelings from the hearts of his fellow-men. Such has been the impulse of the course I have pursued. Throughout the last few eventful years my life has been an open book. [Applause.] I have endeavored to act as a good and true friend of the people, and each shall have every chance, so far as the Constitution and the laws give him. They say few are proscribed. I know many are who have suffered in the few cases where they ought to be. Your Captain shall be punished for what you and he did," I am pursuing with him. I feel the blows inflicted on him. The ring that encircles him is my dungeon cell; every heart it will fall to pain; every tear that people shall shed for him will be shed for me. I will feel it. [Applause.] I feel that they are entirely pardoned, and restored to all rights as far as any of their leaders or chiefs in the struggle are punished for the common cause, and I am prepared to suffer it. So, then, I stand before you, as I promised to do, the same man I was before the Rebellion. My heart is as fond of peace as ever, my sympathies are as universal as ever, my desire for universal amnesty, to lose no piece was any quarrel ever embittered as this has been, is as great as it ever was. Now there are some to be entrenched but some there are, who are sincerely desirous of peace. You see that the Democratic State Convention of Kentucky has declared that the disabilities should necessarily cease. I have waited in patience four years and they don't cease. I now demand that when the people in every State where the matter has been settled by the sword—I am willing that disabilities be abolished; let disfranchisement pass away; let us all be united," that amnesty and good feeling be restored, for we all stand on one common ground. This is all I would say to you. I have little time to be among you, but I do regret to be deprived of the expected hope of the hon. Speaker [Applause] to her to let her voice be heard in her coming election on the side of national reconciliation and universal amnesty. Other States will hear her. Other States will heed her. If that is her judgment, let no false pride, let no party attachment, let no devotion to leaders, for which, however good, is nothing to the that noble; let it echo across the land a sign of peace and amnesty; let the glad command hear it as a token of good cheer and good will; let the people everywhere read and learn that Indiana has declared for the restoration of the last American to the common privileges of American citizenship, and the country will rejoice that the reign of proscription is over, and that the people have declared that all the people shall be free. [Applause.]

In the course of an address delivered at Columbus, Mr. Greeley said:

Everything I have seen and heard since I crossed the mountains cheers and encourages me. I have faith in the good people of Indiana. [Applause.] I do not believe they can be bribed out of their convictions, and I am quite certain they cannot be bought. So I feel certain that your verdict will be given in the coming election for equal rights to all men, including those of our fellow-citizens now disfranchised. I believing, so trusting, I feel so sure of your verdict, so sure it will be given right, that I shall listen on the night of the 8th of October next without a fear, without a doubt, with an earnest confidence, to the hosannas that shall then rise in the van of the great column of States that moves on in defense of constitutional freedom. [Applause.]

ARRIVAL IN INDIANAPOLIS.

Mr. Greeley arrived in Indianapolis at 3½ P. M. today, and was received by a large crowd. Shortly after 4 o'clock he proceeded to the Board of Trade, where he delivered an address on agriculture, in the course of which he said:

Mr. Chairman: I hear that you have been told that he who now addresses you has founded that he who now addresses you has founded a newspaper in this city. Well, I did so, and people said and the fact I do not deny that we might have resumed specie payment several years ago, when we had one hundred and twenty-five million dollars in the Treasury, mainly gold, and an income exceeding our current expenditures by one hundred millions per annum. We might have resumed with less difficulty and less danger of failure than the banks commenced when they resumed in 1816, and at other times. But the opportunity was allowed to pass because resumption was deemed undesirable, and since then we have drifted further and further away from the point at which resumption was practicable, so that our national income is diminished, so is our surplus in the Treasury, while the premium on gold has advanced. In short, we are not on the road to specie payments, but are speeding in the other way. I say, too, the money which lies locked in the Treasury, tempting its custodians to stock gambling, embezzlement and peculation, to reduce the public faith and diminish the interest securing thereon. It was well to hoard gold while we professed to be on the point of resuming specie payments; but now we have exposed that pretense, all excuse for hoarding has vanished. Let the Government pay its debts so far as its means will go, and thus liberate the money it now uselessly hoards to invigorate the business and industry of the country. Such, gentlemen, are my ideas of finance, and having stated them, I will relieve you from further attention.

At 9 o'clock a mass-meeting and torch-light procession was held in the State House yard. Mr. Greeley was introduced by Mr. Dan Voorhees, and spoke as follows:

PEOPLE OF INDIANA: This distinguished gentleman who has just addressed you has pronounced the first sentence of the political campaign. This is all I would say to you. I have little time to be among you, but I do regret to be deprived of the expected hope of the hon. Speaker [Applause] to her to let her voice be heard in her coming election on the side of national reconciliation and universal amnesty. Other States will hear her. Other States will heed her. POLITICAL REFORM.

A Grand Gathering of Anti-Corruptionists.

Vigorous Speeches by Members of the Committee of Seventy.

What the People Are Going to Do About City Government.

Addresses by Orestes Cleveland, Wm. Fullen Bryant, J. S. T. Stranahan, E. D. Morgan, Gov. Holden and Others.

The mass meeting at the Cooper Institute, last night, under the auspices of the Committee of Seventy, was one of the most enthusiastic political gatherings ever held in this city. The vast hall was packed to its utmost capacity, and the most of the following list of Vice-Presidents, who had been appointed at a meeting of the Committee of Seventy, held at the Astor House, on Saturday afternoon, were present on the platform:

[Here follows a long list of names.]

Outside the hall, in Cooper Institute, and in the streets adjacent, there were thousands of people who could not get admittance. Within the hall, every seat was occupied, and the aisles were filled with standing people. The platform was also crowded with prominent citizens, and the whole scene was one of the most animated character. The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock by

Mr. Orestes Cleveland, who said:

Fellow-Citizens: I have been requested by the Executive Committee of the Committee of Seventy to call this meeting to order, and to propose the name of a gentleman to preside over its deliberations. I do so with pleasure, and I propose the name of Mr. William Cullen Bryant.

The motion was unanimously carried, and Mr. Bryant, on coming forward, was received with loud applause. He said:

FELLOW-CITIZENS: I am not accustomed to speak in public, and I am not going to make a speech now. I am here only to perform the duty which you have imposed upon me, and to call upon the gentleman who is to address you. I will, however, say a few words. We are met here to-night for the purpose of considering the public affairs of this city, and to take such measures as may be necessary to bring about a reform in the administration of those affairs. We are met here as citizens, and not as partisans. We are met here to consider

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

The auctions held at the Exchange, yesterday, Monday, Sept. 25, were of unusual interest for the first business day of the week, and all advertised were consummated. The attendance was large and the prices realized for some of the property sold good, particularly that for the improved lots on One Hundred and Twenty-second-street. The result of the day's business will have a beneficial effect upon the market. The following is a review of the transactions:

Joseph McGuire, by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure, under the direction of W. W. Goodrich, Esq., referee, sold the four-story and basement brick and stone front house situate on the east side of Fifth-avenue, 27 feet 5 inches south of Sixty-third-street, for $65,250, the purchaser being E. P. Fairchild. The lot is in size 25 by 100, and a very valuable one, but the house is peculiar, being built in Gothic style and not particularly attractive. It is well known to frequenters of Central Park, having been erected by Archbold's folly? but as it has never been considered a handsome residence, and considerable expense would be required to change it, this fact probably detracted from the value of the lot, which is worth about as much at present prices as the entire premises sold for. Two solid stone fronts, second mortgage, amounting to about $60,000 and subject to a first mortgage on the lot, with interest amounting to $21,750. A. J. Bleecker, Son & Co., also, under a supreme court foreclosure order, Levi A. Fuller, Esq., referee, disposed of the four-story brick tenement-house (with stores) and lots, located on the east side of Third-avenue, between One Hundred and Seventh and One Hundred and Eighth streets, for $19,000 cash, both purchased by Joseph Kock. The lots are in size each 17.6 by 100, and the houses rent for about $2,000 each per annum.

E. H. Ludlow & Co. concluded the day's business with another Supreme Court sale, under the direction of Chas. M. Hildreth, Esq., referee, of four lots, in size each 25 by 90.11, situate on the south side of West One Hundred and Twenty-second-street, 100 feet west of Tenth-avenue, which were sold to Bernard Smythe, Receiver of Taxes, for $9,000 apiece—a very fair figure. Nothing further worthy of note occurred, and on the street nothing of special interest in the way of private transactions was reported.

For today, at the Exchange, a large number of legal sales are announced, a full list of which was published yesterday. V. K. Stevenson & Son will also offer at public auction a desirable first-class residence on Seventy-first-street, between Ninth-avenue and the Grand Boulevard. Today also the great Whitestone, Long Island, auction, in charge of Jere. Johnson, Jr., takes place on the property at 12½ P. M., a very attractive sale and one worthy a successful issue; via. James's-slip and Thirty-fourth-street ferries at 11 o'clock. In addition, today, at Jersey City, N. J., Lewis E. Wood will offer at auction, by order of executors, a very desirable property, 150 lots in all, belonging to the Slaight estate. The sale takes place on the ground at 2½ P. M. Excursion train from foot of Liberty-street at 1 o'clock. It is to be hoped that all these various transactions will be attended with favorable results.

The mountain farm located on Hasberg Mountain, thirty-five miles from Newark, N. J., advertised through many business columns, to be sold at auction last week, was not disposed of, although $3,000 was offered for the same. The property, as will be seen by a notice in another place, will now be subdivided and sold in villa plots, at private sale.

BY V. K. STEVENSON & SON—WILL be sold by auction, at the Exchange Sale-room, No. 111 Broadway, on TUESDAY, Sept. 24, 1872, at 12 o'clock, the well-finished and substantially-built three-story high-stoop brown-stone house and lot on the north side of 117th-st., between the Grand Boulevard and Central Park, being 250 feet west of 8th-av., (the third house west of 8th-av.) size of lot 20x102.2. Terms easy. Maps at the auctioneers' offices, No. 11 Pine-st. and No. 229 8th-av. the house rent for about $2,000 each per annum.

E. H. Ludlow & Co. concluded the day's business with another Supreme Court sale, under the direction of Chas. M. Hildreth, Esq., referee, of four lots, in size each 25 by 90.11, situate on the south side of West One Hundred and Twenty-second-street, 100 feet west of Tenth-avenue, which were sold to Bernard Smythe, Receiver of Taxes, for $9,000 apiece—a very fair figure. Nothing further worthy of note occurred, and on the street nothing of special interest in the way of private transactions was reported.

For today, at the Exchange, a large number of legal sales are announced, a full list of which was published yesterday. V. K. Stevenson & Son will also offer at public auction a desirable first-class residence on Seventy-first-street, between Ninth-avenue and the Grand Boulevard. Today also the great Whitestone, Long Island, auction, in charge of Jere. Johnson, Jr., takes place on the property at 12½ P. M., a very attractive sale and one worthy a successful issue; via. James's-slip and Thirty-fourth-street ferries at 11 o'clock. In addition, today, at Jersey City, N. J., Lewis E. Wood will offer at auction, by order of executors, a very desirable property, 150 lots in all, belonging to the Slaight estate. The sale takes place on the ground at 2½ P. M. Excursion train from foot of Liberty-street at 1 o'clock. It is to be hoped that all these various transactions will be attended with favorable results.

The mountain farm located on Hasberg Mountain, thirty-five miles from Newark, N. J., advertised through many business columns, to be sold at auction last week, was not disposed of, although $3,000 was offered for the same. The property, as will be seen by a notice in another place, will now be subdivided and sold in villa plots, at private sale.

FINANCIAL.

SAFE AND PROFITABLE
CANADA SOUTHERN
First Mortgage Sinking Fund 30 Years
SEVEN PER CENT. GOLD BONDS
Interest Payable April and October at the Union Trust Company,
AT 90 AND ACCRUED INTEREST.

This road is the Western link in the new AIR LINE from BUFFALO to CHICAGO and runs from the Detroit River to Chicago in nearly a straight line.

The road is a part of the same line as the Canada Southern and is being built by the same men, viz.: Milton Courtright, John P. Tracy, David Dows, Wm. L. Scott, Henry Barnum, E. J. Peacock, Jno. W. Burke, M. L. Sykes, Jr., all Directors either in the Chicago and North-west or the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; George Opdyke, of the Midland Road; Sidney Dillon, Daniel Drew, John Ross, David Stewart, Samuel J. Tilden, Kenyer Cox, and other prominent railroad men.

The Road, like the Canada Southern, will have steel rails (60 pounds to the yard) throughout; is STRAIGHT AND LEVEL, MUCH SHORTER, and can be run with greater speed and safety than any other road connecting with Buffalo and Chicago.

The builders of the road control enough of the Chicago feeders to obtain for it a profitable business from the start, having projected the line to accommodate existing business and having seen the necessity for another trunk line between Chicago and the Atlantic sea board, located expressly with the view of obtaining the cheapest transportation practicable. Rapid progress is being made in the construction of the Road, and it will be finished at the earliest practicable period.

The Branch lines will make the shortest connections between Chicago and Toledo, and Chicago and Detroit, as well as between all these points and Buffalo.

The Canada Southern Bonds, in every particular like these, were eagerly taken, the last of them several weeks ago, by the best class of investors, and were on the market a shorter time than any other railroad loan of like amount for years past.

The proceeds of these bonds will complete the entire line, and we recommend them with the same confidence as we do the Canada Southern, and regard them as in every way a choice security.

TWENTY PER CENT. INVESTMENT.

THE AMERICAN BRIDGE CO.,
OF CHICAGO, ILL.,
L. B. SOOMER, of Chicago, President.
(ORGANIZED AUG. 1, 1870.)

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL STOCK, $1,000,000.

The Subscription Books will Positively Close Oct. 1, 1872.

The whole amount of the authorized Capital Stock of this Company not having been issued, the balance will be issued to subscribers at par, payment for same to be made in four installments of 25 per cent. each, viz:

Twenty-five per cent. July 15, 25 per cent. Aug. 15, 25 per cent. Sept. 15, and 25 per cent. Oct. 1, 1872. Past due installments to be paid with interest at the time of subscription.

Books now open at the office of the undersigned will be positively closed at 3 P. M., Oct. 1, 1872.

The total amount of full-paid stock issued at this time is $414,700, and on this basis the Company now has a capital of $518,000. The Company are now doing a flourishing business. Over 1,200 men are almost constantly employed in their extensive works, and they now have on hand contracts for all of the various railroads in the United States across which may be mentioned the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, Chicago and North-western, Missouri, Kansas and Texas, Kansas Pacific, Michigan Central, Missouri Pacific, &c., &c., and the net profit on this work alone will be over $1,000,000. The Company have also entered into work to the amount of more than $6,000,000, including some of the largest bridges ever built in this country; to accept of which and further business necessitates a larger working capital. Immense amounts of material have to be kept constantly on hand, and the Company are frequently obliged to receive in part payment for their work railroad and other bonds which are perfectly good securities, but not always immediately marketable.

The THIRTY ACRES of land in Chicago belonging to the Company, and on which their extensive machine and other shops are situated, is now worth, at least, $300,000, and prominent real estate dealers say it will be worth, in two years, at least $1,000,000—an amount equal to the whole present capital.

The career of the AMERICAN BRIDGE COMPANY, though brief, has already fully demonstrated the profitableness of the enterprise. The Company have constructed, since its organization, and up to the 31st of December, 1871, a total of 26,132 feet of bridges, 18 turning-tables and 16 iron roofs, and pneumatic and screw pile substructures, costing $2,400,000, and have facilities for the construction of pneumatic piles unsurpassed by any Company in the country, and a capacity for the construction of at least 120 feet of bridges for every working day in the year.

The iron railroad and highway bridge at Leavenworth, of three spans of 240 feet each, and the Union Pacific Bridge across the Missouri River, of eleven spans of 250 feet each, were constructed by this Company.

The net profit arising from this business, as shown by the books of the Company, up to the 31st of March, 1872, was $324,989 28 per annum, being over 50 per cent. upon the capital stock then outstanding. With the proposed increase in machinery, &c., the Company will have much greater facilities, and the proceeds of the increased issue of stock will enable them to buy material for cash, thereby making a saving of from $50,000 to $75,000 per year.

The Company can undoubtedly on a cash basis make dividends of from 20 to 25 per cent. per annum on the full amount of capital, $1,000,000, with a fair prospect of a considerable increase.

The undersigned are prepared to give to those inquiring the fullest details and entire satisfaction regarding the reliability of the Company's statements, and the unquestioned integrity and ability of its officers.

We confidently commend to capitalists the above as an investment worthy their attention.

FORRESTER DISCHARGED

Utter Failure of the Prosecution to Establish His Guilt.

District-Attorney Garvin Admits he has no Proof Against Him—An Idea of the Workings of the Detective System.

As was anticipated from the first in the reports of the Times, the prosecution in the case of William Forrester, charged with the murder of Mr. Benjamin Nathan, resulted in an utter failure yesterday. It broke down in the most ludicrous manner, and the detective force, more especially Detective Farley, who has been conspicuous by his assertions that Forrester was guilty, left the Court-room irreparably damaged as far as their popular reputation for truth and smartness is concerned. Before entering on the details of yesterday's proceedings it is well to recall the testimony of Miss Anna Keenan, a music teacher, of Fort Lee, who testified that at about 8½ o'clock on the evening preceding the murder, she saw Forrester enter Mr. Nathan's house. Her evidence so positive, although she was of extremely defective sight, was strong at the time of its rendering, but soon became worthless under a strong scrutiny, when it became known to the defense that she had seen a man enter Nathan's house at the time mentioned, but that man, instead of being Forrester, was the private watchman who testified at the inquest before Coroner Young. Then again Capt. Hedden's witness, George Kelsey, the chemist, who saw a man with shirt covered with blood come through Washington Parade Ground on the morning of the murder, refused to swear positively that Forrester was the man, although he said Forrester was like the man in appearance. In this regard, the prosecution had no case, and the desperate effort made by the Police authorities to persuade the public that they had some little ability, failed miserably and egregiously. Long before 11 o'clock, it was understood that Judge Garvin, disgusted with the affair, would abandon the case, and such proved to be the fact. The loungers around the Tombs were full of the news, even the boot-blacks seemed more enlightened than ordinary respectable citizens regarding it, and under such curious auspices, William Forrester was again brought to the bar, to answer a charge of murder, which, in mockery of justice, had been preferred against him. His counsel, Messrs. Howe and Hummel, were by his side, and Judge Garvin appeared for the prosecution. Superintendent Kelso was conspicuous by his absence. The only respectable knot of the detective force present were Capt. Irving and Detective Farley. The conduct of the latter, in New-Orleans, can be learned from a statement of Mr. John Connors, of Girod-street, published in the TIMES of Sunday last. About 11¼ o'clock Justice Dowling, who seemed uneasy and agitated, said, "I am ready to proceed with this examination." Mr. Howe, rising from beside Forrester, said, "We are ready, also." As the District-Attorney Garvin rose and said: "May it please your Honor, in regard to this case, whether it should be continued or whether the course should end here, is a question which I do not essay to answer, but which I leave to the decision of the Court. The prosecution have ascertained that Mr. Nathan died, and that his death was a foul and barbarous murder, and have also shown by the last witness examined that the prisoner at the bar entered Mr. Nathan's house, the night of the murder. The first two assertions, of course, are conceded by the defense to be true; the last is relied on by the prosecution as having been proved beyond a doubt; that other witnesses, and terribly damaging, but those witnesses the prosecution cannot, under pledges of secrecy, place upon the stand. However great the proof may be, however complete to establish morally the guilt of the prisoner, and conclusively prove his presence in this City at the date of the murder, this bound butchery, I must admit, I frankly state, that they fall very far short of the proof necessary to secure his conviction before a petit jury. The authorities have done their utmost to reach a definite conclusion of guilt or innocence; they have failed to prove the former, and do not believe in the latter. Under the circumstances, I presume that when discharged, the prisoner will be taken to the State Prison at Joliet, Ill., to serve out a term of thirteen years, from which he escaped. At any time, should further evidence be brought to light, he can be brought from there to stand trial, for the great crime of murder knows no bar of limitation in the law."

The effect of this speech was plain to be seen. It was intended to delude the public that the Police, despite their utter failure, had really done their duty, when they did not, and the mass public, for what are commonly, though illusively termed diplomatic reasons. Is was too transparent, and Counsellor Howe at once rose, and by a few pointed truths, fairly riddled the District-Attorney's plausibly erected edifice. He said: "It is a matter of no undue anxiety to me, the sudden and generally unexpected move of the prosecution. To my mind it is but a corroboration, a vouching of Forrester's statement, made from the moment of his arrest, that he was innocent of this terrible and barbarous crime. I have a right, in his behalf, to say a few words in defense of this young man. It is true he is a thief, equally true he has served terms of imprisonment, as true again that he is one of society's outlaws, but equally as true that his hand has never been stained with murder. The District-Attorney alludes to the evidence. What is the evidence? A woman, near sighted, almost blind, swears to time and shades of delicate color, after a lapse of two years. One of the leading papers, the Times, has alluded to the point, and after reading the testimony, the witness has not been subjected to critical in the interest of the public, every man of common sense, even of average intellect, would pronounce the woman's evidence worthless. The District-Attorney knows this, he knows the character of the evidence he has offered, and I know that the prisoner will, on the termination of the trial, because no can indisputably prove he was a thousand miles away from this City at the time of the commission of the murder. As to his future disposition, he will, of course, be taken to his life-long prison in Illinois."

This seemed to puzzle Justice Dowling, and he, after some deliberation, remarked that, on consultation with District-Attorney Garvin, he had adopted the District-Attorney's view of the case. Although the evidence was not strong enough to hold the prisoner, he (Justice Dowling) was morally certain that Forrester was in this City at the date of the murder and was concerned in the crime. He would, however, be compelled to dismiss the charge and remand the prisoner until the arrival of a requisition from the State of Illinois. Justice Dowling told Capt. Irving to proceed to the Central office and bring the requisition to Court at once. Warden A. W. Edwards, of the State Penitentiary, Joliet, Ills., who arrived in this City, was present in Court, waiting production of the requisition, to assume charge of the prisoner, and Forrester's counsel, while Capt. Irving was absent from Court, obtained a writ of habeas corpus, returnable before Judge Leonard, in the Supreme Court, on Friday morning next at 11 o'clock. Until that time Forrester will be kept in close confinement at the Tombs.

What Forrester Says.

After the serving of the writ of habeas corpus on Warden Finley, Forrester was locked up in one of the "condemned cells" of the prison. A TIMES reporter saw him there. Forrester, who is not by any means a vulgar ruffian, as many persons suppose him to be, but on the contrary, a rather quiet and well-educated man of bad character and tendencies, did not seem in the least downcast. On being asked what he thought of the examination, he said he had expected the result from the beginning, as he knew the prosecution could never bring any testimony except that of perjured witnesses against him. Of course, the public would understand from a man of reputation found it infinitely more difficult to disprove a false charge than would a man of spotless character, because ordinarily his associates were naturally of the same stamp as himself. But in this case Forrester said that as one was in the secondary, for he was able to prove his innocence by two officers of justice, who, on the night after the Nathan murder, saw him standing on the corner of Gravier and Tchapitoulas streets, New-Orleans.

Forrester said that we did not feel the necessity, now that the prosecution had been abandoned, of divulging the names of the officers. In regard to his own career, Forrester evinced no hesitancy in answering questions, in every instance save one (the robbery of Rockefellers' Bank at Williamsburg, Penn.). He alluded to the report of his wife having been an inmate of a disreputable house in Memphis, and pronounced it a lie. Forrester also stated that during his sojourn in the City he was constantly in the Fourth Ward, passing under the name of Ralph Winslow, and that he could have walked into Police Head-quarters on pretended business, with impunity, as not a single detective there knew him. Only two detectives in the City knew him, and they were not connected with Central Office. He was sorry that the examination had terminated as it had, for he had hopes not only of his acquittal, but that something further would be developed, which, Forrester mysteriously added, may yet be. Forrester smiled and said, "We all have periods theories and opinions about this murder, and I have mine. I hope time will bring out the truth." Forrester naturally feels sore-hearted at the prospect of solitary confinement for thirteen years, but I suppose what must be will be. I have not seen my wife, so do not expect to, and am not desirous of seeing her, for the reason such a meeting would pain both myself and her. I am glad you came to see me, and hope you will send your paper what I have told you, not a word more or less.

THE ASSISTANT ALDERMEN.

The Mission-Place Property—Street Favoritism—The Corporation Attorney and the City Treasury.

The Board of Assistant Aldermen met yesterday. The Chairman announced that he had appointed Mr. Pinckney on the Finance Committee, in place of Mr. Hartt, deceased.

Assistant Alderman Gracen introduced a resolution directing the Corporation Counsel to commence proceedings against the parties who have taken possession of Mission-place between Centre and Baxter streets. The resolution was adopted.

Assistant Alderman Geis, as Chairman of the Committee on Law, reported in favor of the following resolution:

That all streets, avenues, roads, and all public places, which have been regulated, graded, sewered, and paved at the expense of the property-owners of the property benefited thereby, shall not hereafter be assessed for any improvement, but all such assessments, charges, or claims for such former improvement shall be at the expense of the City at large.

Assistant Alderman Conner referred to the action of Controller Green on Saturday, in refusing to be present at the opening of bids for paving.

The resolution was returned to the Committee on Public Works.

Assistant Alderman Geis then called up the following resolution, which laid over under the last meeting:

That the Controller be and he is hereby directed to report to the Board of Aldermen the amount of moneys paid into the City Treasury (for the benefit thereof, or to the sinking fund) by the Corporation Attorney from the commencement of the fiscal year, in 1871, to the end of the last fiscal year, in 1872; the report to give in detail the amounts received, and for what purpose; also the expense attached to the collection of the same.

Assistant Alderman Krase moved as an amendment, that the investigation should take in from the year 1869.

Assistant Alderman Robinson moved, as a further amendment, that the investigation take in from 1831.

Assistant Alderman Conner said it was evident that the gentlemen who proposed these amendments intended merely to prevent the investigation. He would not, however, object to it if it was the sense of the Board that the inquiry commence at 1831, because then an opportunity would be given the public of making comparisons between the administration of the present incumbents of the Corporation Attorney's office and those of his predecessors. Assistant Alderman Geis could not see why the resolution should meet with any opposition. It merely called for a report, and he would tell the gentlemen that if reports had been in order in other days, the public would never have allowed those gigantic frauds to have been perpetrated, of which Messrs. Tweed & Co. are the heroes. He did not call for this inquiry, because, as has been suggested by one member, (Stacom,) he was snubbed at the Corporation Attorney's office. It was not by such petty influences actuated him. On the contrary, he had always been treated with the greatest consideration—as a gentleman. No harm can come of an inquiry; much good can. He hoped the motion would prevail.

Assistant Alderman Galvin opposed the resolution. These calls for investigation, so frequently made, amounted to nothing but immense expense of printing, &c., to the City. This he feared would be the end of the one now called for.

A good deal of desultory discussion here followed, and frequent motions to refer, to amend, to substitute, &c., were made. Finally, a division being taken on the original resolution, it was lost by a vote of 12 to 9. The ten voters in the negative were: Foley, Stacom, O'Brien, Krase, Robinson, Cosgriff, Healy, Cassidy, McDonnell, Kinkelbein.

The Board soon after adjourned.

Harlem Court-House Investigation—Further Testimony.

The investigation by the Senate Committee into the alleged fraud committed in the construction of the Ninth District Court-house, was resumed yesterday at the City Hall, in the Chamber of the Board of Aldermen. The inquiry was conducted by Mr. C. H. Kitchell, counsel for the Committee, and W. H. Trull, of the firm of Devlin & Trull, appeared for Henry W. Genet, who was also present.

Robert G. Hatfield, of No. 81 Pine-street, recalled by Mr. Kitchell, testified that in examining the building he saw no completed rooms; he visited the office, but did not observe any safes; witness identified the document presented as an exact copy of the measurements and estimates made by him while examining the premises; the man in charge of the work assisted him in the inspection of the material and work performed; was not certain as to his name, but thought it was McDermot; Mr. Scallon at one time assisted in showing the material lying on the dock, and which consisted principally of blue-stone; saw no lumber on the dock.

The counsel for Mr. Genet waived the right to cross-examine, but said he would call Mr. Hatfield as a witness if he should be wanted.

Albert E. Winant was next sworn, and testified that he had been employed in the Surrogate's office since January, 1870; sold no property of his own to the City; has acted for Mr. Fairchild in the sale of six lots at Harlem; took the deed in his own name, and transferred the property to the City for $34,030; the money was handed over to Mr. Fairchild; was not aware what the land cost Mr. Fairchild, who lives at No. 243 West Fifty-seventh-street; witness had had a conversation with Mr. Fairchild about the property some time prior to its transfer; knew of no division of the money paid for the property, and had no interest in it himself; the warrant and check were made out in the name of Mr. Fairchild; never remember the purpose for which the property was purchased by the City; might have heard at the time; was two or three months ago so as to remember the fact; was not certain whether the property was located on One Hundred and Twenty-sixth-street, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh-street, or One Hundred and Twenty-eighth-street; it might have been One Hundred and Fortieth-street so far as he knew; it was, he believed, somewhere in that neighborhood; did not search the title, nor do any other act appertaining to ownership.

After some little discussion between the counsel as to the further course of procedure, the investigation was adjourned, until Wednesday next.

The Jackson-Street Harbor Examination by Deputy Coroner Keen.

Dr. Wooster Beach yesterday made a post-mortem examination of the remains of Joseph Burnett, the Swedish stevedore, who was stabbed in the left breast and almost instantly killed by Timothy Landers, his brother-in-law, during a fracas on Sunday evening at No. 78 Jackson-street. The Doctor found that the blade of the scissors with which Burnett had been stabbed had penetrated the heart. Coroner Herman has taken charge of the case, and will hold an inquest on Thursday. Mrs. Burnett, the wife of deceased and the sister of the prisoner, identified the latter most positively as the man who attacked her husband. Garrett Landers, the brother of the prisoner, left this city yesterday for Elmira.

Reform in the Brooklyn Controller's Office.

Controller Schroeder, of Brooklyn, yesterday submitted to the Board of Aldermen an draft of an ordinance, the object of which is to check the power of the Controller to issue and sell an unlimited amount of bonds, without rendering an account of such sales to anybody, and to prevent him from keeping in his possession, for an unlimited period of time, moneys which should be paid over directly and immediately, when bonds are sold, to the Treasurer of the city.

The ordinance provides for the proper advertising, opening and registering of all proposals for City loans, furnishing the Treasurer with a certified statement of all awards, and that all moneys in settlement of such awards be paid to the Treasurer. The ordinance further provides that no such bonds or stock certificates for loans to the Corporation shall be signed or countersigned by the Controller and Mayor or either of them, unless there shall be presented with them the receipt of the City Treasurer; and all such receipts shall be indorsed by said officers.

The ordinance was adopted.

Exception to the Railroad Ticket Agents.

The railroad ticket agents, who for the past few days have been in session at the St. Nicholas Hotel, were entertained yesterday by the owners of the Anchor line of steamers on board the steam-ship California. About fifty gentlemen responded to the invitation, and after inspecting the vessel sat down to lunch in the saloon. Speeches were made by Mr. Conerly, the manager of the line, and Messrs. Charlton, Barnes, Douglas, Johnson, Powell and others. The health of the proprietors were drank. The agents will remain in session to-day and to-morrow, and the question of fares for emigrant passengers will be discussed at some length.

The Report of the Treasury Swindle—Subsequent Declarations.

The Treasury officers who were sent from Washington to investigate the condition of the affairs of the Sub-Treasury have returned to Washington and have rendered their report to the proper authorities. The book accounts were all found correct with the exception of those kept by Johnson, Jenness, some time ago began speculating in stocks, and, meeting with losses, attempted to retrieve them by using the Government funds. For this purpose he appropriated $100,000 that had been deposited for his defalcation. The examination showed that he did not take stamps, but money derived from their sale, and then intentionally neglected to make any entry for it in his books, which would make it appear that he had on hand a larger quantity of stamps than was actually the case.

The broker through whom Johnson operated have informed the Department fully as to the operations and the amount of money he speculated with them at various periods. The examination showed that Gen. Hillhouse had placed almost implicit confidence in Johnson, and that he never made any use or want of Checks upon Johnson that the defalcation occurred, and that no blame can attach to the Sub-Treasurer.

Streets Paving—Is the Belgian Block a Special Favorite?

Bids for paving with Belgian pavement the following streets were to have been opened yesterday at the Department of Public Works, before Commissioner Van Nort and Controller Green: Twenty-third-street, from Third-avenue to East River; Thirty-seventh-street, from Seventh-avenue to North River; Thirty-first-street, from Fourth to Fifth-avenue; University-place, from Waverley-place to Eighth-street; Fifty-fifth-street, from Seventh-avenue to Broadway; Twenty-fifth-street, from Third-avenue to East River; Forty-first-street, from Eighth to Tenth-avenue; Sixty-first-street, from Third-avenue to Avenue B; First-avenue, from Fourteenth to Thirty-sixth-street. The opening of proposals for this week was postponed from Friday last. Controller Green being in doubt as to whether the "patent or special pavements" forbidden by charter provisions have or have not been laid down in any streets which have heretofore been paved, without the consent of two-thirds of the property-owners, was meant to include the Belgian blocks. He sent a note to Corporation Counsel O'Gorman asking for an opinion in the matter, but no one was here having been called away yesterday. Mr. Green sent word to Mr. Van Nort that if petitions in favor of the work had been received from residents of the localities affected he would waive upon the Commissioner, the law requiring the Controller's presence at the opening of the bids. Mr. Van Nort replied that none had been received, and the opening was therefore postponed until to-morrow at noon.

Mr. Van Nort has been advised by Mr. O'Gorman to proceed in the matter, the Common Council having authorized the paving of the streets mentioned. The Commissioner states that he does not regard the Belgian blocks, which are so largely used all over the City, as a special pavement.

A committee of property-owners from the Seventeenth Ward called on Controller Green, yesterday, to protest against the paving of Fourth and Fifth streets, from Bowery to Mangin-street, with Nicolson preserved wood pavement. The Controller referred the deputation to the Department of Public Works.

Fun at City Hall.

Application was made yesterday to Judge Leonard, in Supreme Court, Chambers, that the members of the Board of Audit be punished for contempt, for having failed to audit and allow the claim of ex-Sheriff J. Maloney for over $400. It appeared that Maloney had been employed by the County Sheriff at a salary of $200 per month, two months of his time remaining unpaid. A mandamus had been issued by the Court directing the Board of Audit to "audit and allow" the claim, and, upon notice of the present application had been given the Board, had audited and allowed the claim to the sum of $284 35. This, it was contended by Maloney's counsel, was not a compliance with the terms of the mandamus; that the Board was bound to audit the claim as the contract rate, which was $200 per month.

Judge Leonard said, in order to bring the Board of Audit into contempt it was necessary the mandamus should have directed it to audit the claims at a fixed amount, which had not been done in this instance. The motion was therefore denied.

Before Judge Shea.

JURISDICTION OF THE COMMON PLEAS OVER THE MARINE COURT.

Richardson vs. Davidson.—This case, which is a suit on a promissory note, was called on for trial before Counsel for the defendant called the attention of the Court to the fact that an appeal was now pending in the General Term of the Court of Common Pleas, from an order of the same Court as Special Term, denying a motion for an injunction restraining all proceedings in the case in the Marine Court, pending a decision of this appeal in the General Term of the Common Pleas. The only Judge there was Judge Shea, he did not regard as binding the Special Court being now a Court of record, and was subject to the control of any Court save the Supreme. He therefore refused to consent for plaintiff that he move before Chief-Justice Daly to have this order set aside.
